

CEO's Message for June 2023

Indus believes in the authenticity of teacher effectiveness. Only effective teachers can create equally effective students. Without self-development there can be no meaningful professional growth. Given the acceleration at which AI is impacting education, the challenges are even greater today. Teachers are expected to re-role themselves continuously to personalize learning – to teach the child and not the subject alone. We believe that the bottom line for this achievement is based on self-growth.

In this context we have just concluded a 3-day leadership retreat on the Indus Bangalore campus. The central themes for the retreat were 'how school leaders can design their future'; and 'how teachers can teach the child and not the subject alone'. Schools will be conducting two such retreats every calendar year to review the progress of how the transformation is happening.
