

CEO's Message: April 2026

Introspection is the habit of looking inward to understand your thoughts, emotions, strengths, weaknesses, and biases. By practicing solitude and journaling, you stop reacting to your child's behaviour and start responding with wisdom.

This self-awareness prevents you from passing on your anxiety to your children, and model the maturity they need to grow.